Introduction to Whisky and Tasting

The Introduction to Whisky Tasting is for newcomers and enthusiasts alike. We aim to highlight the regional styles and variances available from Scotland. We will talk about the production, maturation and bottling process to gain an understanding of how the whisky ends up in our glasses. Then we will move on to taste 4 single malts from each of the main whisky producing regions of Scotland. It lasts approximately 1 hour and is fully hosted by Daniel, our Food and Beverage Operations Manager, who is hand to answer any questions you may have.

Single Malts and Cheese

It is commonly known that wine can be matched with many foods to enhance the flavour profiles and we believe the same applies for good whisky!
With single malt whiskies and their hugely complex characters, it too can be paired with many different foods.
In this tasting we select 3 single malt whiskies each paired with 3 different Scottish cheeses. We will cover the production, maturation and bottling process before moving on to try some great whisky and cheese. It is a fully hosted tasting that lasts approximately 1 hour.

Premium Whisky Tasting

For those that feel already well acquainted with the basics of enjoying Scotch Whisky and wish to sample the more exclusive and uncommon examples of Single Malts. This Premium Tasting leads you through a tailored selection of Scotch Whisky, uncovering some of the nation's rarer and limited whiskies whilst still maintaining a diverse range of flavour and style, representative of each region.
